

CLI_and_example.PNG shows a typical execution of the do_spdx python file and how to call it from the command line. The parameters passed are the path to a package (tarball) as a required parameter and the path the .config file as an optional parameter.

Config_file_example.PNG shows a typical config file as of this point in development. Other options may become apparent as implementation and design continue forward.